

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to an article for association with a motor vehicle. The article may include a base, and a plurality of inserts received in the base. Each insert has at least two characteristics. The at least 5 two characteristics of each insert causes the plurality of inserts to form a substantially unique article profile.